Everybody in city to be affected

New law changes zoning code

BELLE GLADE—Ways of getting the word out on a series of three ordinances which will affect literally every homeowner and business person in Belle Glade were mulled during a workshop session Monday night.

The ordinances, if and when they're adopted, will comprise the city's new zoning, development and subdivision codes and City Planner John Gubisch said if they are adopted as written, they'll affect everyone in the city to a greater or lesser extent and some people will be affected drastically.

The zoning code alone, including a prefix, takes up 87 pages of material and includes significant changes such as the elimination of pyramid zoning, creation of a church-school-park district, creation of a new type of business zoning, density guidelines, new guidelines for home occupations and completely new parking requirements.

Gubisch said the codes are the result of months of work by a ten-man committee, and was the first job handed him when he began working for the city last October.

Gubisch, the city commissioners and City Manager Robert Sanders all agreed during Monday's workshop that the scope of changes incorporated in the zoning and development ordinances requires that they be treated differently in the adoption process.

Normally, a new city ordinance is advertised twice over a four-week period and is voted on twice by the city commission, passing on the second reading if both votes are positive.

Because every homeowner and businessman in the city will be affected by the codes, however, there will be a series of public hearings designed to give every person in the city a chance to learn what is included in the new laws and provide input before the codes are locked in.

After the series of public hearings which will be presided over by the city administrative staff, two more public hearings will be held by the commission.

Gubisch stressed that changes could be affected at any time during the hearing process. He said the first hearings will almost certainly take place some time after the next 30 days.

Mayor Tom Altman directed the city planner Monday to come up with a proposal for a method of notifying every resident of the city about the codes and the extent of changes.

Gubisch said he is considering sending the notices through the mail, distributing them through newspapers or having them hand delivered by city work crews. The notice received by a given resident will probably consist of color-coded maps of the section of town occupied by the resident, showing the zoning as it now is and again as zoning is proposed by the new ordinance, and a written summary of some of the major changes.

For those who have questions before the hearings begin, Gubisch said large maps of the entire city, showing current zoning and proposed zoning, will be available in city hall, along with copies of the ordinances.

He said everyone in town needs to realize that while their property will be grandfathered in under the new ordinances, if anything should happen and buildings should be destroyed or in need of major changes, rebuilding would have to take place under the new zoning law.

Some of the more drastic changes include:

- A requirement, for the first time, that anyone appearing before the City Zoning Board or the Board of Adjustment pay a $50 fee. This passes the cost of the process along to those who are using it rather than to the taxpayers at large.
- Elimination of pyramid zoning.

in which each progressive step of zoning allows everything which was allowed by the district which preceded it. For example, a restricted business zone is now set up to

Algal study completed

A verbal report of a just-completed 15-month study on what causes the growth of algae in Lake Okeechobee will be presented to the Florida Sugar Cane League next month, according to Dr. Joseph Orsenigo, head of research for the League.

The $160,000 study was performed by a team of University scientists with the Department of Environmental Engineering Sciences and was paid for by the League. The team was headed by Dr. Patrick L. Brezonik.

Dr. Orsenigo said the purpose of the study was to determine which chemicals and nutrients in the water were periodic times when intensified testing was performed.

The team made monthly tests in the lake and in their laboratory at Gainesville and Dr. Orsenigo said there were periodic times when intensified testing was performed.

"At several locations in the lake," Dr. Jackson, one of the team scientists, said, "large plastic enclosures filled with lake water were suspended and the suspected chemical was added independently."

Each enclosure was monitored for two weeks to determine the amount of growth in algae and submerged weeds.

"Increase in algal growth indicates which added chemical is most critical in controlling growth in the lake," Dr. Fox said. "Knowledge of these critical elements will allow pollution control experts to consider the selective removal of particular elements or compounds."

The potential economic benefit is a reduction in the cost of pollution control for the large water body.

"We haven't released anything on the study," Dr. Orsenigo said. "We expect an oral report next month but a written report won't be received until mid-December."

He said the report would be shared with other interested agencies.

ONLY MINOR INJURIES were reported Tuesday afternoon when two cars collided on a rainswept US 441 just north of the Palm Beach County Glades Office Building but traffic was directed around the site by way of an unpaved road west of the Florida East Coast Railway track until troopers could clear the area of the cars.

High water at marina could bring on evacuation of campground

BELLE GLADE—Rising water at the Municipal Marina, which almost completely flooded the camping area Friday and Saturday nights, and the problems the high water is causing, will be discussed in a meeting, possibly Friday.

The meeting was called for Monday night by the City Commission during a workshop session. The meeting is to be between the commission, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the South Florida Water Management District.

Should a recommendation by City Public Safety Director Charles Goodlett be accepted by the commission, the rising water could eventually lead to evacuation of the entire marina. Parts of the marina have already been evacuated.

Goodlett said he was called out Friday night after strong northwest winds pushed the water level at the marina up to the point it almost covered the highest point of land at the campground.

Marina Manager Stan Whitlock said the water rose almost as high Saturday night when winds rose then.

Goodlett said he knows that if the winds had lasted as long Friday night as they have lasted in the past, the lake level at the marina could rise as much as 24 inches.

The level was 16.38 inches Monday morning and another two feet would be enough to completely cover the area.

"It wouldn't be enough to drown the people out there," Goodlett said, "but I've seen a flood out there once, and the panic it caused among the campers, and it isn't pretty."

Goodlett said the one time in the past the marina was completely flooded was at a time when the lake level was at 16.5 feet, a foot lower than the level is scheduled to rise see Marina P9

Vending machine law to stay

BELLE GLADE—The possibility the city commission would change its mind and throw open to free competition the right to distribute vending machines designed for entertainment and music appeared a dead issue Monday night when the commission took no action on a request.

The request was made July 24 by Tommy Housch, that the city rescind an ordinance limiting the number of distributors to one for every 6,000 city residents.

The ordinance came up for discussion during a workshop session after the commission discussed it twice during regular meetings and some of the commissioners said they wanted more input.

Police Chief D. Bill Mathis said he could recall only one instance when another person attempted to distribute vending machines and said there was sabotage and other problems at the time but added that was when the third person involved was using the interstate he was selling the machines.

Mayor Tom Altman repeated his view that he could see no valid

Edwards is last candidate

BELLE GLADE—Nathaniel Edwards, of 653 S.W. Sixth St., a political newcomer, was apparently the last person to qualify as a candidate for the city commission in the Sept. 12 city election, when he filed at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The deadline for qualifying was 4:30 p.m. Wednesday but no one else was expected to come in to the city clerk's office.

City Clerk June Boglioli swore Edwards in as a candidate in the Group Two seat for the election. He faces incumbent Ralph Kirk and former commissioner Aubrey Farmer in the at-large race.

A native of the Glades, Edwards said he expects to take his campaign to the people in a door-to-door effort to win the election. He held a rally Monday night and said he was pleased with the response, particularly since there had been no advertisement except word of mouth.

He said he has no promises to make but he is concerned with cleaning up the city, and finding more housing and jobs. "It's not something that can be accomplished in one year but we can get started," he said.

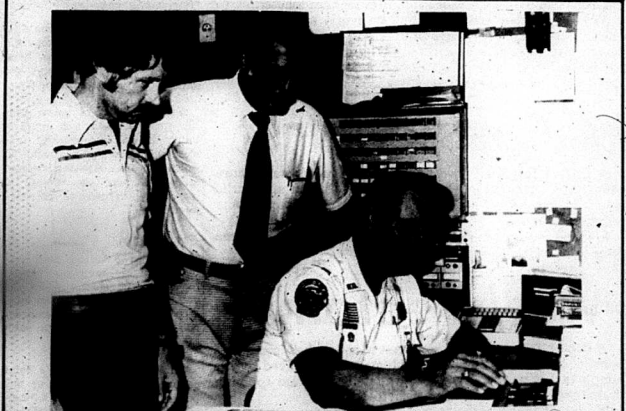

Edwards' campaign manager is Willie Pyfrom and Ruth Howard is his treasurer.

reason for keeping the ordinance but when he asked the other commissioners if they wanted to make any change, the general reaction was that they didn't.

The commissioner did direct City Manager Robert Sanders and City Attorney John Baker, however, to come up with criteria to determine the standards to be used in the future to see if an applicant is qualified to distribute the machines.

NATHANIEL EDWARDS sworn in as candidate by City Clerk June Boglioli.

THE BELLE GLADE POLICE DEPARTMENT officially transferred over to a new radio frequency Friday. The new frequency gives the force greater latitude as well as circumventing problems that arose on the old frequency when Dade County was given the same one. Dade's transmissions overrode the local forces. City Manager Bob Sanders, Police Chief Bill Mathis look on as George Farnall reads a frequency proclamation over the air.

Coming back from Belle Glade Saturday afternoon, I happened upon an automobile accident on SR 716 just south of Pahokee and was greatly impressed by the professionalism and dedication shown by the Pahokee Ambulance Service personnel.

A young teacher was badly injured and trapped in her vehicle and in moments, members of the ambulance service and volunteers who happened along were attempting to extricate her from the wreckage.

In the meantime, traffic was blocked and other volunteers, including our own Cathy Conerly, advertising manager, took over directing duties.

Cathy makes a very good, and attractive, traffic director. She surely stopped the cars at any rate.

It took almost 30 minutes to get the young woman out of the car and a few minutes later, she was at the hospital. I understand now she may have been blinded in the accident.

That is very tragic. But the response of the ambulance service and those who worked hard to help them was gratifying to see.

Who knows? It may be you or I next time and it's good to know there are people who will work hard to help.

Maybe that's why I've never liked the large sign. There's a "not get involved" attitude that is reported often in the newspapers. People watch others get mugged and don't help.

But you won't find that happening in the Glades. The Good Samaritan attitude is alive and well.

The response to our request for interviews with survivors of the 1928 hurricane has been outstanding. So has the response for pictures of the storm's aftermath.

The deeper you dig into this storm, the more concerned you grow that there exists a possibility, however remote, that it could happen again.

And if it did, the tragedy could be ten-fold.

Water has always been the Glades' main problem, either too much or sometimes, too little. Since 1928 a system of water and lake control has been constructed that is second to none on earth.

While we don't anticipate a storm of the force of that of September 16, 1928, neither did the residents of the area at that time.

We're in the prime time for hurricanes right now. It would be wise of us all to know what to do in the case of a storm, where to go and how to handle it.

Much of this information will be published in our hurricane special section, which will be in the Herald and Observer on September 14.

I find the accounts of those who went through the storm especially fascinating. The trials of that night are beyond imagination.

Time, however, is running out on getting information about the hurricane so if you went through it or know someone who did that we could interview, give us a call at 996-2056.

If you liked our 50th Anniversary of Belle Glade issue, you're gonna love our hurricane.

Inscrutably baffled

It may be flogging a dead horse but sometimes it's necessary to get in that final lick to let people know what the final outcome of a controversy was.

That's the case with the no-action action taken Monday night by the Belle Glade City Commission.

In two previous editorials, running concurrently with two news stories, the point has been belabored that the city commission, by taking no action, has ensured the continuance of an ordinance limiting the number of possible licensed distributors of entertainment-type vending machines to two...at least until the city has more than 18,000 inhabitants.

From what was said by City Manager Robert Sanders, when he related to the commissioners the history of the ordinance, the reasons for passing the ordinance in 1951 were suspect to say the least.

And "suspect" might be the word to best describe the non-decision taken three weeks in a row by the commissioners which ensures the continuation of an ordinance which restricts free enterprise for no discernible valid reason.

The only reason for maintaining the ordinance by the four commissioners who obviously felt no change was needed (Mayor Tom Altman said on two different occasions he favors rescinding the city law) which has been expressed has been that it's a bad idea to begin changing ordinances without a good reason, with the footnote by one commissioner that the desire of Tommy Housch to begin distributing the game machines isn't enough of a reason to make the change.

Those four commissioners could give lessons to Orientals

Where was he?

In the Where Were You When I Needed You category, Mayor Tom Altman was flying so high he was almost in orbit Tuesday afternoon when he called with the sobersided announcement he had just become the father of a bouncing 8 pound, 13 ounce boy named Patrick Thomas...

...And that was just 16 hours after plaintively crying out during the middle of the hottest citizen complaint session since he's been mayor, "I told Debbie (Mrs. Altman) to go ahead into labor so I wouldn't be here."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I would like to comment on the recent rescue of a young boy from the Rim Canal by Andy Fontaine.

Why did Andy do this? Friendship? No, he doesn't yet know who the boy is. Reward? No, there was no reward offered. Fame? No, he did this on a Tuesday and no one knew much about it till Friday. He could have made excuses for not getting "involved": the boy should not have been there, he ought to know how to swim, I'll get all wet, it's deep and I probably couldn't find him, he might panic and give me a hard time. But he didn't; he asked just one question - "Can he swim," and when the answer was "No" he got "involved" and did what had to be done.

I like to believe that, subcon-siously perhaps, in the back of Andy's mind there is something about honor, about duty to God and country, about helping other people, about being physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

You see, Andy is a Scout, went to camp Tanahketa this summer with Troop 622. He is from a Scouting family, his dad is on the Cub Pack committee, his mother has been a Den Leader, and his brother is a Scout. I am sure that they are all proud of him. And so am I. I hope all of you out there who have contributed to the Scout program either physically or financially feel the same way. This is the "pay" we volunteers work for, this is what your contributions have bought, good boys, willing and able to do good deeds, and growing up to be good men.

One more thing: Andy is eligible for a Boy Scouts of America Life Saving Award, but we must know who the rescued boy is. If any of you out there know please call me or the Herald office so that we can get Andy the recognition he deserves.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

George McGovern? Calling for a war on part of what used to be known as French Indo China?

Absurd! But there he was in all his radiant glory! The hero of the anti-Vietnam war... the presidential candidate whose platform was to crawl to Hanoi on his hands and knees if necessary to make the peace, saying this week military intervention is needed in Cambodia.

Surely, mass media, you jest! Would the Peace Candidate himself, the darling of Miami in 1972, the victim of Watergate, ask, may demand the use of napalm and other instruments of destruction be used on the hamlets of Southeast Asia?

Oh, yes. Yes, he would, but not, you understand, not the dispatching of a division of Marines. This, Gorgon George says, must be an international peace keeping force.

No, this would have to be a true international force. Perhaps a platoon of Senegalese spearmen, a squad of Mongolian calvarymen complete with lacquered leather armor and short bows to represent the Golden Horde, a full battalion of IMPI brandishing Fuzzy Wuzzys and a company of Maori swordsmen could represent part of the international force McGovern wants.

If that isn't enough, he could probably draw a brigade or maybe even a division from Castro's standing army in Cuba. Since he's already attempted to unilaterally negotiate a peace settlement with Fidel, McGovern might do well to look in his own backyard in North Dakota and recruit a troop of Sioux. All he'd have to do then would be to resurrect the ghost of Crazy Horse or Red Cloud and he'd once again have the finest light calvary in the world.

That's what someone once called them, anyway but at any rate he'd have to make sure none of 'em ever served in the Marines. That would never do. Wouldn't want to take the chance of polluting the purity of purpose the task force would have to have.

I can see of George at the head of his peacekeeping force right now, marching over the Thai or Vietnam border, On to victory and knock down that genocide-oriented government!

One thing you'd have to admit, that would be one colorful army... the first bit of color in George's life. Might even inspire him on to greater heights. Who knows, he could even run for President of the first free Cambodian government after the current regime falls to his force of arms.

For that, there are any number of Washington politicians I can think of, not to mention a host of personal friends, who'd be eternally grateful.

There are a lot of people who'd be more than happy to see George win the big one... in Southeast Asia. Who knows, he might even get some support from his home state.

And speaking of more than happy there was a test group in California who got involved in a recent experiment, the result of which was that chain cigarette smokers are just as subject to respiratory diseases as us other weed users.

To make things worse for the weed weed smokers, they only have to smoke three joints a week to be considered chronic users and another study I heard about since then indicated tobacco smokers can smoke a pack a day and probably not be hurt by it.

On t'other hand, there's some people I know who swear up and down they get more out of a single joint than I do out of a carton of smokes.

I don't know what they're thinking about when they say more but I'll guarantee I get more cough than they do on that kind of ratio.

So stick it in your roach clip and smoke it.

on inscrutability... although any attempt to figure why anyone would want to do that can only lead to bafflement.

At any rate, the case is apparently closed for the time being but it will be interesting to see what criteria the commissioners decide on to determine the qualifications of the next distributor... especially should several people apply for the next license in 1980, when the city's population is expected to go over 18,000, at the same time.

City strikers

When firefighters joined striking policemen in an illegal walkout in Memphis last week, the reaction in that troubled city reinforced the old maxim that nature abhors a vacuum.

The vacuum in this case was filled by the replacement of police officers on the streets with National Guard troops.

Memphis Mayor Wyatt Chandler gave the only possible answer when he said that as far as he was concerned, the strikers had quit and he was interviewing replacements.

The police officers were breaking the very law they had sworn to uphold; first by walking out in an illegal strike, then by attempting to intimidate non-striking officers, throwing bricks through windows and interfering with officers who were still doing their duty.

Last month, the firefighters' actions were similar when they walked out and attempted to put Memphis to the torch.

Both groups, of course, were attempting to stress their belief they are irreplaceable, something which has yet to be proven. Police and fire protection are essential of course but no community should be held hostage by its employees, whether they are in the business of keeping law and order, fighting fires or collecting garbage.

Other people can be hired to perform those same jobs and, given a period of being broken in to their new jobs, could probably do as well.

Mayor Chandler could even extend his public service by noting the names of the strikers and distributing them nationally. At the joking suggestion this week that the Belle Glade Police Department may be getting some applicants from Memphis, one official correctly replied that we don't need that kind of officer...or firefighter for that matter.

We submit they probably won't be overly welcome in any community. There are ways of reaching agreements in contracts with labor unions without breaking the law but if the unions offer headline resistance then maybe the unions themselves should be outlawed.

A Russian first

A Soviet doctor advised an engineer that horse manure won't cure his baldness, "and neither will onion and garlic salves or kerosene," despite what the proponents of home remedies said.

Medical science triumphs again and just remember, it was done first in Russia by a Russian scientist.

Wallectomy

A doctor, according to a newscast Monday, has found that some of his patients with big problems were relieved by the simple fact of removing bulging wallets which were applying undue pressure. He called it a wallectomy.

He may have thought he had some kind of new discovery there that would revolutionize the practice of medicine but wallectomies have been performed for years by some doctors we know.

The only difference was they weren't calling the operation a wallectomy... and the treatment wasn't necessarily for big problems. Matter of fact, it seems to be a standard operation among doctors, attorneys, the friendly neighborhood grocers and a lot of wives.

Part II
BELLE GLADE—To "bless God" - to praise him with thankfulness and love, to pronounce him ineffable blessed in the possession and exercise of his own perfections - is the noblest use of speech, as it is the loftiest act of the soul. To "bless the Lord...who forgiveth all (our) iniquities, who healeth all (our) diseases; who redeemeth (our) life from destruction, who crowneth (us) with loving kindness and tender mercies; who satisfieth (our) mouth with good things"; to sing, "O Lord, I will praise thee...Behold, God is my salvation: I will trust, and not be afraid; for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song: - for this use, above all others, the tongue was given us.

"Therewith," says the apostle; "bless we God, even the Father," or rather, adopting the best supported reading, "our Lord and Father." This is the peculiarly close and endearing relation in which the believer delights to think of God, and to address him, as our reconciled Father in Jesus Christ, and only those who thus know him as their Father can truly, lovingly and gratefully "bless" him.

"With the tongue," says the apostle, "we bless our Lord and Father, and with the tongue we curse men. To 'Curse' is strictly to imprecate evil on a person, to pray for injury or destruction to come upon him. Peter, in the high priest's palace, began "to curse and to swear." On our own streets, alas my brethren, the swearer's awful prayer in lamentably familiar to our ears, the words in which, if they have any meaning, he prays for everlasting destruction on himself of his neighbor.

As James employs the work here, however, it obviously includes much more than this - utterances of any sort which show unkind feeling to our neighbor, our neighbor "made after the similitude of God." God said, "Let us make man in our likeness...So God created man in his own image," with the sublime dignity of a moral nature and a mind and heart which could apprehend and love truth and holiness.

But the awfully wicked inconsistency of the conduct described in most glaring of all when the curses are imprecated on the heads of those who by faith of God's children in the covenant, predestinated "to be conformed to the image of his Son."

No more gross inconsistency can be conceived, no evidence more complete that the tongue is "full of deadly poison," than for a man to bless God, to praise the Father with growing words of gratitude and affection, and to curse, to slander or insult his children in Christ Jesus.

There are people professing godliness, people who every sabbath day in the song of praise lift their voices and bless God for his boundless Fatherly love; yet who during the week often give way to most unallowable anger against their fellow men and God's children; or in whose company you cannot be for a few minutes without hearing some ill report against a neighbor. "My brethren," says the apostle, "these things ought not so to be."

the same place sweet water and bitter? Can the fig tree my brethren, bear olive berries? Either a vine, figs? You know that is not so.

The fountain of the heart obeys laws as fixed as those by which the fig tree bears figs, not olives, and the vine grapes, not figs. A heart renewed by the Spirit of God is a spring of living water, "a well of water springing up into everlasting life." Its outflow in speech, as in conduct, will be pleasant and healthful. There may be indeed since depravity is not wholly subdued here, jets of bitter water, but the habitual issues are sweet.

"Who is a wise man and endowed with knowledge among you? Let him shew out of a good (life) his works with meekness of wisdom."

Rev. Miller transferred to St. Pete

BELLE GLADE—The Rev. Roy C. Miller, his wife Helen, and son, Paul, will leave Belle Glade after more than five years as pastor of the Church of God, 301 S.E. Avenue E, Belle Glade.
They will assume their duties in their new pastorate in St. Petersburg, the Disston Park Church of God, the first week in September.
This Sunday, Aug. 27, will be their last day in Belle Glade. Members and friends are cordially invited to worship the Lord with

A well of water...

Many important events have taken place at the well. In days long ago it was a meeting place, where all came because of the necessity to obtain life-sustaining water.

Jacob met his beloved Rachel at the well. Moses met the daughters of his future father-in-law at the well in Midian. Much later Jesus Christ met a woman of Samaria at the well and said, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst, but the water that I shall give him shall be in him, a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

The church of God today is a meeting place where many come to obtain this life-giving and life-sustaining water of which Jesus spoke.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Over 400 attend Mica rally Sunday

SOUTH BAY - Sunday was "icing on the cake" for District 11 U.S. Congressional candidate Dan Mica for a weekend of rallies as Mica and Congressman Paul Rogers toured the district getting support for Mica's candidacy.

The Glades Committee to Elect Dan Mica sponsored the barbeque Sunday afternoon at South Bay Growers and candidates for other offices, friends and well-wishers appeared to meet Mica and his family and pledge campaign support.

Rogers introduced Mica, pointing out that the Glades area was among the first to give him support 24 years ago when he first ran to fill the seat filled by his father.

The district, the largest geographically in the state at the time Rogers was first elected and now the most populous district in the United States, has only been represented by Rogers and his father since it was created.

Mica has been an administrative assistant for Rogers for more than ten years and many people who have known him for some time had the opportunity Sunday to meet his wife and children as they wound through the line to get their barbeque dinners.

"(The barbeque and the turnout) was particularly pleasing to note," Mica said later, "that so many would come out on a mid-August Sunday afternoon to express their support."

"What I'm feeling from all of this," he said, "is that the voter of the 11th Congressional District are behind my efforts to conduct an aggressive and positive campaign that highlights my sensitivity to their problems and concerns."

One other speaker for the day, preceding Rogers and Mica, was George Wedgworth, who has escorted Mica through the area already and who Rogers said was one of his first and most consistent supporters in the Glades.

Mica said that, with Rogers' endorsement two weeks ago, his campaign to replace the retiring Congressman has, "taken off."

He is running on a quality of life platform and while he knows he doesn't have all the answers, said his background gives him the ability to work on the security of individuals, their equality and personal freedom, the dignity of senior citizens and the rights of all the quality education.

Scarola is married and has four children.

Solid waste bond approved

BELLE GLADE - A bond issue to finance a $5 million regional solid waste disposal facility here was approved Monday by members of the Glades Budget and Policy Advisory Committee (BPAC) indicated they would back off from the project unless the overall cost could be decreased.

The bond resolution was approved by the BPAC for the Glades project, following earlier approval of the parent body, the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority, during the regular BPAC meeting but Authority Director Tim Hunt said that doesn't mean the bonds will be issued immediately.

What Hunt said the approval means is that the BPAC can now obtain interim financing to fund a $10,000-$15,000 initial study of the site to determine the boundary, the types, compaction, borings and permeability of the soils and whether a survey of surface and ground water and water samples from canals and shallow wells.

Hunt said the results of the study would allow the state Department of Environmental Regulation to make a determination of whether and under what conditions the landfill part of the facility would be allowed.

He said that, depending on the conditions, could save more than $1 million of the total $5 million cost, pulling down the cost per ton for operating the facility.

One clause in the resolution required that the bond be paid off by revenues, not by ad valorem taxes by any of the cooperating agencies.

BPAC Chairman Bill Bailey, representing the county said he would be "willing to go ahead with further site study but if we can't reduce the tipping fee from $20.65 a ton, I'm going to back off because it's just too much for the taxpayers to have to pay. The county is operating landfills for $4 a ton."

Hunt said the county landfill in Pahokee is operating at a $4 per ton rate too but that amount doesn't cover the cost of operations.

Other members of the committee agreed with Bailey that if the tipping fee couldn't be reduced, they would also be in favor of backing off from the project.

Hunt said one method of reducing the cost would be to come up with a grant to pay for part of the cost of the project and said he is using the county computer now to attempt to find such a grant.

He said an Orlando facility, similar to the one proposed for the local disposal facility, has recorded a cost of a little more than $14 a ton during their worst months.

Come In and Save!

LETTER TO THE PEOPLE OF BELLE GLADE

I am very concerned about the 35% increase in the water and sewer rate that has been placed on the backs of the people of Belle Glade.

This large increase in water bills will not only be felt by the homeowners, but also the landlords and merchants. This will cause an increase in rent, food, clothing and any other item purchased in the city of Belle Glade.

I, personally, am against the new garbage collection system being proposed. I see nothing but added expense. We will have to pay for each container, their maintenance and replacement.

I feel it's time to let the people help in spending their money, also making decisions. I propose publishing the agenda prior to each commission meeting.

The operation of city government is a business. Therefore, being a business man, I feel qualified to implement the basic principals of business — supply what the people demand.

Your Vote and Support Will Be Greatly Appreciated

Trammel to head Chamber

BELLE GLADE-Charles B. Trammel, Jr., president of Everglades Federal Savings and Loan, has been elected president of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce for the coming year.

Trammel succeeds Dale Stapp, district manager of Florida Power and Light and outgoing president. Other officers elected include James Gann, local attorney, first vice president; Jane Thompson, second vice president; Vernon Dexter, treasurer and Jewel Crane, secretary.

Members were mailed ballots this week to elect four directors from a list of 11 names submitted. Those nominated include Mrs. Lynette Thompson, a housewife; Howard Roland, first vice president of the Bank of Belle Glade; Mrs. Nedra Solas of Southern Bell; Gilbert Alvarez of Gilbert's Jewelry; Arthur Jones, assistant manager of Holiday Inn; Jim Kelley, president of Florida First National Bank; Charles Ward, owner of Food Center Supermarket; Dr. Naomi Conley of Conley Professional Service; Frank Green of Frank Green Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge; Gordon Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp and Rupert W. Mock, Jr. of the Bank of Pahokee.

In other action at the recent Chamber meeting, the directors went on record opposing the grooving of the pavement of SR 80 and voted to continue to apply pressure to have the highway four lanes. Copies of the letter to DOT will go to representatives, senators, the Canal Heads Safety Committee and other interested parties.

They also voted to write a letter to the DOT to ask for installations of guard rails at the approach to the 20-Mile Bend Bridge.

William D. Magill was chosen to be the director's seat being vacated by James Gressinger, who wrote he will be out of the state for at least a year with his son Mark who is recovering from a motorcycle accident.

Magill was one of several alternates and will serve until 1980 when the term expires.

New county judge speaks to Lions

BELLE GLADE-Newly appointed West Palm Beach County Judge Edward Fine spoke at the Lions-Club weekly meeting last Wednesday.

The reason for his appointment, Judge Fine explained, was the lack of judges in the county. Out of the 24 judges in Palm Beach County only nine are county judges, and 16 are circuit judges. Palm Beach County was one of the few counties in the state the legislature felt needed an additional judge.

In a question and answer period Judge Fine stated his views on some issues concerning everyone. Fine bargaining he says, "is a necessary evil." "I'm in favor of everyone getting a fair trial." Fine bargaining is used both to defend as well as to prosecute an individual, he explained. It helps everyone involved understand the case better.

A big supporter of using mediators in a case between two individuals, Judge Fine expressed his feelings toward it. He said that it will save the county money since the mediators are volunteers. These individuals sit in a room with two persons having disagreements and resolve their differences out of court. In most cases, he said it is better since it's all very informal and persons feel more relaxed and at ease.

Judge Fine said he is also in favor of scheduling trials so it won't be necessary for the persons involved to be scheduled with ten other cases.

Memory man advises Rotary

BELLE GLADE - Local Rotarians had a chance Tuesday to play arithmetical Bingo and be suitably impressed by a man whose business is to cure the, "Gee, I remember the face but the name escapes me" syndrome.

Billy Burden, owner and president of the Billy Burden School for Memory Improvement in Colorado City, Colo., greeted each of the Rotarians before the meeting began and then, when he began his talk, recalled each of the member's names before going on with his talk.

The other part of Burden's demonstration was a takeoff on Bingo, when he used a chart of 25 squares in lines of five, with a letter of the alphabet assigned to each square.

"When he asked for someone to pick a number from 60 to 140, and a club members called out the number 122, Burden began having club members call out the letters and he would assign a given number to each letter's box.

As the horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines were filled, the "Bingo" was added up and each line totalled 122.

Nurse course will be given

BELLE GLADE - Glades area residents who want to find if they have what it takes to become a Licensed Practical Nurse (LPN), will have the opportunity from 4 to 7 p.m. today at Glades General Hospital when an aptitude test will be administered by the Palm Beach County School Board Vocational Education.

The test is designed to find whether applicants to the Palm Beach County Practical Nursing Program. It is being administered in the hospital nursing classroom; there will be a $3 testing fee and applicants must bring identification, (driver's license preferred).

Still another softball upset

By Karen Hansford
BELLE GLADES—Glades Women's Softball continued into its 11th week of action this summer with yet another surprising upset pulled.

The Bank of Pahokee, winless in all but one game this year, scored five runs in the first inning and added another four to spark a 9-5 triumph over First Baptist Church of Belle Glade.

In a game filled with walks, Bank of Pahokee's batters only amassed two clean hits, singles by Joann Raulerson and Lisa Logan. Meanwhile, First Baptist collected five runs on six hits.

The Bank's defense held First Baptist until the third inning, when the girls erupted for three runs. They added two more in the top of the fourth on runs by Jill Cunningham and Kendra Snow to make it a tie game, but Bank of Pahokee pushed a run across in the bottom of the inning by Tammy Reeves to go ahead by one. Three more runs sealed the game for the Bank of Pahokee, its second win of the season.

In the second game of the evening, Community United Methodist Church (CUMC) rallied for eight runs in the sixth inning to protect a lead over Local 2152, in the team's eighth win against three losses.

Local took the lead at first with five runs in the top of the second inning, one of them a double by Wanda McMillan. CUMC scored two in the bottom of the inning to trail by three, then went ahead in the third with four runs to make it six to five.

A triple by Janie Priest helped for three of four runs CUMC added in the fourth and fifth innings while holding Local to one in the fifth. The girls then broke loose with eight runs on four hits in the sixth, including a two-run homer by Donia Adams. The game ended with the score 16-5, in favor of CUMC.

South Bay Growers shut out Dixie Fried Chicken 10-0 in the first game of a doubleheader played last Thursday night in Canal Point. The victory kept South Bay in first place in the league standings.

Kim Miller, Judy Johnson and Mary Lou Stevens each got singles and then scored for South Bay's first three runs in the first inning. There was no score in the next three innings as both teams concentrated on defense, then South Bay Growers got on the scoreboard again in the fifth with five more runs on four hits and four errors. The rally ended as Dixie Fried's third baseman snugged a grounder and stepped on third for the force out.

Dixie Fried's scoring threat came in the sixth inning as Joy Busby advanced to second base on a throwing error and then went to third on a fielder's choice. She was left stranded, however, as leftfielder Judy Johnson caught a fly ball for the final out. The game was then called due to the 10 run rule.

Arch rivals Wallis Pharmacy and Miami Herald squared off in the second game, with Wallis emerging as the victor in a 10-5 triumph.

Wallis led off with three runs in the top of the inning, one of them a double by Annette Davis. Miami Herald bounced back with one on a double by Jayne Meadows. Both teams added two in the second to make it five to three.

Bouge calls for "back to basics"

BELLE GLADES—Education must get back "to the basics" was the message delivered by Art Bouge, member of the School Board representing the Glades, to the Belle Glade Rotarians Tuesday.

Bouge, who is running for reelection, said most of the present problems in education have stemmed from great social change and the attitude that every child is entitled to public education.

He noted that virtually everything the local school board does must be approved in Tallahassee and pointed out that while some teachers are below standards, the majority are people who have worked within the system for the past ten years.

Palm Beach County teachers are also among the highest paid in the Southeast, he noted.

A portion of the proposed Constitutional Amendments concerns public education and states that the reason and goal of public education is to teach youngsters to read, write and function. He said he heartily endorses and supports this concept.

Locally, said Bouge, while the population is increasing the school population has remained stable for the past eight years.

He said he has voted against the budget and this year's $162 million budget will not receive his endorsement. Bouge told the club there are many dedicated teachers in the Glades but that they cannot "open up a child's brains and pour information in there, he has to get some of it for himself."

In a question and answer session, Bouge acknowledged criticism from Gene Badger, who said the School Board had held a "make-up" day after regular sessions ended for the summer at a cost of $400,000 to the taxpayers and with children being told not to show up. He said he voted against the date of the make-up day.

He also explained his stand on social pressures involved with the school system and noted free breakfast and lunches and a high divorce rate contribute to educational problems.

allow small businesses such as convenience stores but also allows all kinds of residences to be built since business zoning is one step above residential zoning. Under the new code, if a piece of property is zoned business, it can't be used for a residence.

- Inclusion of a PUD (Planned Unit Development) concept, by which a developer could leave the zoning code to plan an apartment complex, for instance, if he can show the city his plans' quality equals or exceeds the requirements of the zoning and development code. There is now no allowance for such a move.

- A population-density requirement under any given zoning. There is no such requirement now.

- Creation of a new category which splits the zoning between "filling stations", which could be combined with convenience stores for instance and would only allow the pumping of gasoline, and "service stations", which would be allowed to provide the traditional full service. Gubisch said filling stations would be allowed in areas now closed off to traditional service stations.

- Home occupations would come under stricter guidelines which basically would only allow occupations which wouldn't change the lifestyle of the neighborhood.

- Creation of a new business district (B-1) which would apply to businesses in the central shopping areas of town. Newly created B-2 and B-3 districts would be comparable to current B-1 and B-2 zoning.

- Parking requirements under the new code would have a major impact. Gubisch said some of the changes would be elimination of parking lots with wide open access to the street in favor of two driveways into a closed off lot. Generally, homeowners, apartment owners and businesses would all be required to provide off-street parking. Gubisch said he believes "a lot of fat" has been cut from the proposed code. One difference he noted in the writing of the ordinance is a listing of 64 definitions, compared to 15 in the existing ordinance.

"There are too many concepts in planning which are ignored in the existing ordinance," he said. "They simply aren't there."

The city planner said he has already given copies of the ordinance to staff members for the Area Planning Board, the Palm Beach County Planning Department and the Tallahassee Planning Department, where he was formerly employed, and has received favorable comments from all of them.

The ten-member committee which worked up the zoning and subdivision codes was chaired by City Manager Robert Sanders and the members included Gubisch, Fritz Stein, Bert Roemer, Timothy Rumph, Kenneth Retterer, Mendal Baker, Benny Richmond, John Baker and Tom Altman.

The development ordinance was written by City Building Inspector Kenneth Retterer and Joseph Fay, assistant to City Manager Robert Sanders.

Marina

by the Corps of Engineers.

Five members of the city staff met with Area Engineer Bud Pritchett and Chief of Operations Robert Pearce Monday morning in Clewiston and the Corps engineers said they now have a permit which allows the lake to rise to 16.5 feet.

Pritchett said the permit is temporary but when he was asked if the permit would be superseded by another to allow the lake to rise to 17.5 feet once 16.5 is reached, he had no answer.

City Manager Robert Sanders said Monday night he had been informed by the Corps engineers the lake's level is decided on by engineers at the district level in Jacksonville.

Mayor Tom Altman was visibly upset by the raising of the level and Sanders how the city could find itself in this situation, since, when the Water Management District signed its agreement to expand and raise the level of the marina camping area, the city was assured the operation of the existing marina was to be uninterrupted.

Pearce said during the morning meeting that Water Management District Director John Maloy has indicated that since his organization is responsible for supply water to both coasts, he wants to see the lake level brought up to at least 17.5 feet. Pearce said he had no idea if the authorization to raise the level that much would be given or not.

Pritchett also noted that the lake is now higher than it has been at any time since 1970, when two low pressure areas brought more rainfall and water into the lake than the Corps could get rid of.

Pritchett said the Corps can get rid of a maximum of one foot a month by opening all gates and locks. He said there is now a five-foot head of water on the lake side of the hurricane gate leading to the Hillsboro and North New River canals.

Pearce noted that last year was the first time since 1970 when the area had an excess of rainfall. He said he based his figures on a rain gauge in Clewiston. According to the rain gauge at the Agricultural Research and Education Center here, even last year was a deficit.

When the Corps engineers were asked about the reliability of the Herbert Hoover Dike should a hurricane hit the area, they said that they are "fairly confident" the dike is strong enough to provide safety.

The commission gave permission to the administration Monday night to begin using Scout Island as a campground in an effort to save 45 of the 125 campsites at the marina.

since the part reserved for Belle Glade residents and Missouri Streets have already been evacuated.

In the meantime, Sanders told the commissioners he had been assured by Maloy the Water Management District is bound by its agreement with the city to reimburse the city for any financial loss by the raising of the lake.

Sanders was instructed to pursue that point while attempting to set up a meeting between the commissioners, the Water Management District and the Corps of Engineers for Friday afternoon.

In the meantime, Goodlett recommended that should high winds occur again at the marina while the water level is as high as it now is, the entire marina should be evacuated.

Whitlock agreed, saying he could recall "six or seven times last winter when we had trouble and that was when the water was between 14.5 and 15.5 feet."

PAHOKEE—It was an afternoon filled with spectators, performers, racing sun, planes, planes and more planes. Many of those planes found a haven in the sky to the delight of crowds who watched from below at Pahokee's airport, Tilford Flying Service on S.R. 715. Pilots of Chapter 23, Pompano Aerobatic Club showed their skills of aviation, similar to the part they played in last year's air show in Pahokee.

Jim Tilford, former owner of Tilford Aviation, followed each soaring event at the microphone while flips, hammer head stalls, nose dives and rolls sounded off the culmination of National Aviation Week in Pahokee.

Besides the entertaining stunts performed in Pitt Specials and distinctive aircraft, spectators were also treated to rides over Pahokee via helicopter and a concession booth set up in the airport's hanger.

Architect named for PBJC auditorium

A 500-seat auditorium at Palm Beach Junior College, Glades moved one step closer at the August meeting of the PBJC trustees.

The auditorium, designed to be a cultural and educational center for joint use by the college and the community, was funded by a grant of $586,747 from the state last year to add to $300,000 in local funds.

The trustees selected the Palm Beach architectural firm of Marion, Baber and Paluga as architects for the project.

Two other major items at the board meeting also concerned the joint use of facilities by the college and the community.

The trustees approved a plan advanced by Dr. Edward M. Eisey, PBJC president-elect for the county to be able to use such college facilities as baseball and soccer fields, gymnasium, tennis and handball courts.

In return, the college would be able to use the recreational facilities in John Prince Park, adjacent to the college campus.

A part of the plan would be an undetermined amount of financial assistance from the county in improving the facilities at the college.

In the first draft of a proposed agreement, it was specified that county use of college facilities would be approved and scheduled with the PBJC athletic director.

College use of Park facilities would be approved and scheduled with the County's director of parks and recreation.

In a related, but separate action, the trustees renewed their resolution asking the state for double matching funds to build a swimming pool at PBJC Central with local funding of $300,000 pledged by the county commission.

The same resolution, based on a law which is intended to encourage joint use of facilities by different levels of government, was passed last year, but was not funded by the legislature.

Blue Devils looking forward to tough schedule this year

PAHOKEE—Two hours during the morning and two hours during the afternoon, Pahokee High's practice football field is a haven for grunting, hitting, action and reaction. It's the signal of another Blue Devil football season: Five coaches and a barrage of hot, sweaty boys in pads have been meeting twice a day in preparation for their first game of the season, Suncoast, Sept. 8. Since school begins Monday, the practices will be cut to once a day.

"We look real good," Head Coach Antoine Russell says. Russell has coached the Devils to four state playoffs over the past five years. Russell was named 1977 Coach of the Year by the Palm Beach County Sports Hall of Fame. He has 17 lettermen returning from last year's team, including quarterback Ronnie Osborne who has started for the last four years, beginning in ninth grade.

"Right now we have a sound offensive line," Russell noted. That line is composed of Osmond Edwards, tight end; Lonnie Pondergrass, offensive tackle; John Bush, guard; Frank Walker, center; Gus Butler, guard; and Tim Rumph, tackle.

"We have one young man whom we're expecting a lot from. That's Samuel Pompey," Pompey is a returning senior who will take both sides of the action. "We'll rely heavily on him as fullback, and he will also help us out as defensive tackle."

The offensive line will be the "brass" of the team, but the defensive line has two outstanding players. Nathaniel Hannah, cornerback, and Stafford Everett, safety, are two veterans who are back.

"Right now we're working on some depth," Russell said. "Two young ninth graders look very promising."

The Blue Devils have one new member of the coaching staff, Bernard Jackson, who is the offensive line coordinator. Jackson handled the city's summer recreation program on the high school grounds.

Veteran coaches are Sandy Hysman, defensive line coordinator; Eddie Lee Rhodes, defensive back coordinator; Eddie Buckner, offensive back coordinator, and Russell who "puts it all together"

PPI first in tournament

PAHOKEE—PPI displayed battling efforts over the weekend, outdoing Miami Herald for the first place spot in the Women's Skinned Knees Tournament, sponsored by the Miami Herald. The tournament began Friday at Pahokee's softball field and ended after midnight Sunday.

PPI (Pahokee Produce Inc.) had to beat Miami Herald twice to outdo the previously undefeated team. PPI fell to Miami Herald to give them an undefeated status. But four games later, the tide had definitely turned.

PPI had a winning streak, defeating Wallis Pharmacy, of Belle Glade, Bronson Ranch of Moore Haven and Miami Herald of Pahokee twice consecutively. PPI gave all their efforts, defeating Miami Herald 22-2 before their second and final win.

Eleven teams participated in the double elimination tournament, the second such event held by Miami Herald. Trophies were awarded to PPI, first; Miami Herald, second; Bronson Ranch, third and Wallis Pharmacy, fourth.

Information on youth is sought

Dr. Bob Allen as asked any resident who knows the identity of the youth saved from drowning by Andy Fountain on August 3 to call him or the Belle Glade Herald.

Two boys, both black, were fishing at the Rim Canal near the bridge when one fell into the water and 13-year-old Andy dove in and drug him to the surface.

Andy is now eligible for a Boy Scout honor, but the two youths must first be located and identified, said Dr. Allen.

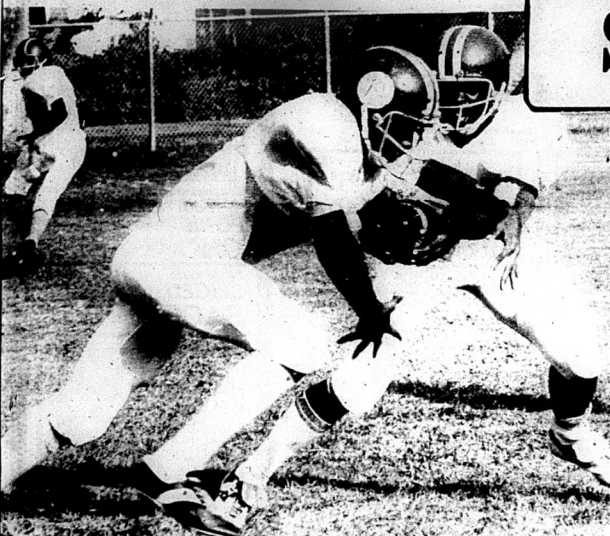

Anyone with information of the two boys or who has information that could lead to the discovery of their names is being asked to call Dr. Allen at the Experiment Station or to call the Belle Glade Herald.

Your help would be sincerely appreciated, said Dr. Allen.

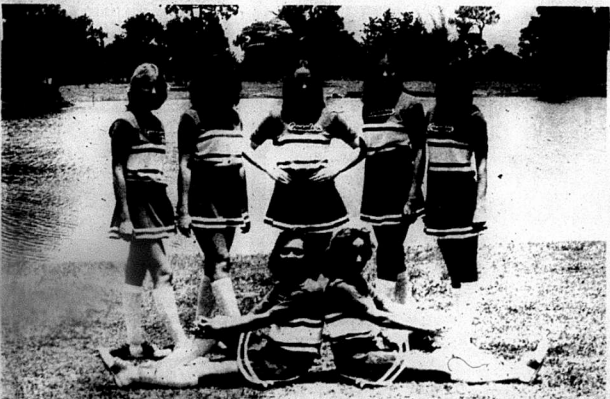

SAFE ON FIRST but Coca Cola didn't bring in enough runs to outdo Wallis Pharmacy Sunday. Wallis controlled the game with a 16-1 win and placed fourth in the Women's Skinned Knees Tournament, sponsored by Miami Herald.

Col. Robert M. Brantly, executive director of the Game and Fish Commission, said the meetings are designed to gather and exchange information from sportsmen and other interested citizens on the controversial program which allows commercial fishing in the lake for all species except bass and pickerel.

Brantly said proposed regulatory changes such as possible alterations of the length of the commercial fishing season, along with further restrictions on the use of wire traps will be discussed.

"The regulations governing the program were designed to be flexible and to be modified to best suit the interests of the sports and commercial fishing groups and insure effective resource management," he said.

Meetings have been set at 8 p.m. Aug. 30 at the Clewiston High School Auditorium and August 31 at the Okechobee High School Auditorium.

The program has come under fire from sportsfishing interests who say it is underfunded and could have been one of the reasons for a bad speckled perch season last spring.

During meetings earlier in the year, officials of the Game and Fish Commission said they would know "in July" if speckled perch were overharvested by seiners, trawlers, and netters and would make this information known.

Many sportsfishermen around the lake have complained about the wire speck traps and are saying that commercial fishermen continue to violate the rules and regulations of the program. All interested people are urged to attend.

WALLIS PHARMACY and Coca Cola had their go at it Sunday as the Women's Skinned Knees softball tournament wound up
